Fireworks display caps holiday here

HOLIDAY ROYALTY—The winners in the Little Miss Firecracker contest at the Fairground Thursday afternoon are pictured shortly after the announcement was made. They are Kathy Sparkman, second runnerup, Maria Frogale, first runnerup, and Holly Croker, 1974 Little Miss Firecracker.

A $1,000 fireworks display viewed by thousands of local residents at the Fayette County Fairground Thursday night capped an exciting day of holiday festivities sponsored by the Washington C.H. Jaycees.

The colorful display began at 10 p.m. and lasted more than half an hour. The Fairground midway was packed with spectators, hundreds more paused to watch the display from their cars at the drive-in, numerous motorists pulled off along the CCC Highway to view the exploding projectiles, and others simply stepped out on their porches or lawns to see the missiles flash over the rooftops.

The day's activities began at 10 a.m. with a parade from Willard

Street through the downtown business district to the Fairground. The parade featured the 10 finalists in the "Little Miss Firecracker" competition and culminated with the crowning of the new queen at 12 noon.

Edwin M. Nestor, superintendent of city schools, was the grand marshal, and nearly 40 foreign exchange students from the West Coast participated. The students arrived in Washington C.H. Monday night to spend a week with local hosts. They left Friday morning for New York before returning to their homes overseas.

REIGNING over the day-long festivities was Miss Holly Croker, Little Miss Firecracker, 1974. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Croker, 652 Comfort Lane. Miss Maria Frogale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Frogale, 649 Willabar Dr., was the first runner-up, and Miss Kathy Sparkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sparkman, 422 Albin Ave., was the second runner-up. Miss Croker was crowned at the Mahan Building after each of the 10 finalists was presented to the audience and asked to respond to questions posed by contest chairman Mike Bailo. The questions had been written prior to the ceremony and each contestant randomly selected her own questions from a huge kettle

Campaign finance measure 'filled with loopholes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has produced a Watergate-inspired campaign finance bill that creates new election rules but also new ways around them.

Senate-passed legislation and the bill approved by the House Administration Committee would establish limits on contributions and candidates' campaign spending.

However, critics in and out of Congress are going after loopholes in the House bill, some large enough, says a Common Cause lobbyist, for armored trucks to drive through.

Whether the loopholes can be closed or narrowed in the weeks ahead depends on conditions of debate to be set by the House Rules Committee. The Senate bill is regarded as loophole-free.

Reformers want unlimited chances to offer, debate and vote upon amendments.

But Administration Committee Chairman Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, is talking of seeking a rule allowing only a few amendments, maybe just floor tests on the controversial enforcement and public financing sections of his bill.

In the House bill-drafting sessions, the members seemed to create the loopholes while aiming at what many of them regarded as campaign nuisances.

For instance, Hays asked why a candidate who throws a fund-raising dinner at $25 per plate and pays $12.50 per plate to the hotel for the dinner should have to account publicly for the meal cost, and count the entire $25 toward his spending limit.

Going along, the panel voted to exempt fund-raising costs from counting toward spending limits, and to exempt candidates from even reporting these costs for public scrutiny.

But critics say this would allow any campaign activity to qualify as fund-raising. They say a half-hour network television broadcast need only carry a subtitle such as "send money" and the public will never know who paid for it, or how much it cost.

The panel voted again and limited the fund-raising exemption to 25 per cent of the campaign ceilings, which is up to $5 million for the presidential campaigns.

However, the panel did not mandate that the expenses be disclosed, and it did not rewrite its last draft to apply the limit to activities of political committees.

Another loophole was created by trying to do something for folks who have coffee and cookies in their homes while candidates talk.

Candidates should not be required to add up and report all these little expenses, Hays said.

Defense takes over in Plumbers trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prosecution is nearing the end of its case against John D. Ehrlichman and three others accused of plotting an illegal search of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Ehrlichman's defense is expected to begin today and the former White House aide planned to take the stand to answer prosecution testimony that he approved the 1971 illicit entry into the office of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Two other defendants, Miami's Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez, also are to testify in their own behalf.

Their attorney has indicated they believed they were working on a legitimate, if clandestine, CIA operation approved by the White House when they broke into Fielding's office Sept. 3, 1971.

The fourth defendant, G. Gordon Liddy, has refused to testify before grand juries and a congressional committee, and is expected to remain silent in the break-in trial.

The raid against Fielding's office was devised by the White House plumbers, a special investigative unit created to close news leaks. Their first mission was to investigate publication of the Pentagon Papers study of the Vietnam war, leaked to the press by Ellsberg.

Now that President Nixon has returned from Moscow, he is to be asked a series of questions in Ehrlichman's defense. The written questions and answers are to be admitted into evidence.

Testimony has shown it was Nixon who ordered Ehrlichman to probe the motives of Ellsberg when the Pentagon Papers were first published in the summer of 1971.

A defense subpoena also is to be issued to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Testimony is expected to end sometime next week.

Commission approves plans

Apartment complex proposed near Belle-Aire Subdivision

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Preliminary plans for a multi-family apartment complex to be located on the southern edge of Washington C.H. were approved by members of the City Planning Commission Wednesday night.

Three representatives of the Four-in-One Partnership, a London-based real estate development firm, presented to the city planners a proposal, for a 96-unit townhouse apartment project which will include private recreation facilities.

THE PROPOSED residential development will be situated on a nine-acre tract of land adjacent to Ohio 41-S and just west of the Belle-Aire Subdivision. The planned construction site is located between the Hawthorn Subdivision and W. Elm Street on an L-shaped tract of land owned by Frank Baker, of Washington C.H.

David Hume, the spokesman for the London real estate developers, said research conducted by the company disclosed a "lack of this type of project in Washington C.H." and he further stated that the "quality units would be most compatible" to neighboring housing developments.

The company is proposing to erect two-story townhouse apartments in the rental project. Hume said the townhouses would have two and three bedrooms and would rent for $90-$225 per month.

He said the 96-unit project would be constructed in three phases. The first phase would include 34 townhouse apartment units and private recreation facilities including a large swimming pool, tennis courts and a clubhouse complex for party rentals. Hume said there is a possibility that condominium homes would be erected in the latter phases of the development. Limited recreation and swimming pool memberships would be offered to residents of neighboring housing developments to establish a private club arrangement, Hume said.

The proposal includes the construction of a street throughout the complex. The street, which would eventually be dedicated to the city, would connect with Damon Drive in the Belle-Aire Subdivision and Ohio 341-S.

City Manager Dan Wolford said no rezoning would be required for the development.

The real estate developers included a slide presentation of similar completed (Please turn to page 2)

Woodcutter nabbed in triple slaying

TRUCKEE, Calif. (AP) — Authorities were silent today about clues that led them to a brawny woodcutter sought in a triple slaying and the six-day kidnapping of three other persons.

John Wayne Card, 26, of Woodland, was arrested in this Northern California mountain town late Thursday by FBI agents and sheriff's deputies. The FBI said he was armed with a .45-caliber automatic pistol but offered no resistance.

Ohioans enjoy typical 4th despite rain

By The Associated Press

Ohioans enjoyed a typical hot, muggy Fourth of July, marred only by occasional rain and some threats of storms across most of the state.

The storm watch was most intense in an area extending from Chillicothe to Cleveland and including Columbus.

A funnel cloud was spotted in the late afternoon west of Sidney in the western part of the state.

A second funnel was spotted by the Clark County sheriff's department, two miles east of Enon at 4:41 p.m.

Neither cloud touched down and no damage was reported.

Thunderstorms forced postponement of bands and fireworks at Cleveland's July Fourth festival scheduled at Burke Lakefront Airport.

The display was rescheduled for July 27th, marking the last day of Cleveland's All-Nations downtown festival.

Showers hit Columbus in the early evening but cleared by nightfall allowing brilliant fireworks displays at areas across the city.

Kings Island amusement park, north of Cincinnati, staged a massive seven-minute fireworks show using a computer to synchronize the bursts.

"We had 143 people pay the $7 admission just to see the show," said a park spokesman.

The three-year-old amusement park, which sprawls over 850 acres, set an attendance record Thursday with 20,150. Previous high was 17,815 last year.

High winds and showers hit the area earlier in the day, but the skies cleared for the 10 p.m. display.

Card's arrest came 10 hours after a widow and her two children, kidnaped last Friday, escaped from chains in a forest and walked to a ranger station.

Card was wanted for investigation in the slayings last Friday of a veterinarian, his wife and daughter of Willows, a farming community 70 miles north of Sacramento.

Authorities said he would be booked for investigation in the kidnappings and the slayings after being transferred to Willows in Glenn County, about 100 miles away, later today.

"All I'm concerned about is that he is in custody. That's a relief," Under-sheriff Jim Kennon of Glenn County said.

Neither Kennon nor other authorities would say what led them to Truckee in Sierra Nevada's 70 miles south west of Reno, Nev., and the arrest of the 6-foot-2, 240-pound Card.

"We have been very close to him on several occasions," Kennon said. "We have been following our leads which led us to Truckee Thursday."

Card was sought in the death of Dr. Clayton B. Griffiths and his 13-year-old daughter, Lisa Ann. Both had been strangled with baling wire. Griffiths' wife, Nancy, was found shot to death in a field 20 miles from their home.

Officers have said they could determine no motive for the slayings.

Earlier Thursday, Kay Skillin, 34, her son, Wesley, 13, and her daughter, Debbie, 12, all of the Butte County farming community of Dayton, walked into a forest ranger station in Wilbur Springs, 55 miles northwest of Sacramento.

They told authorities they were chained to a tree Wednesday about a mile from the station. They said they worked their way free and walked to the station at daylight Thursday. Their captor had left plenty of food and water for them, they said, but they didn't know whether he planned to return.

Sheriff Joel McDermott of Colusa County said Mrs. Skillin told deputies they had been driven through parts of California, Nevada and Utah since their abduction, staying in motels and a truck camper. He described all three as "very tired" but apparently in good health.

John Reed, FBI agent in Sacramento, said Card was carrying more than $3,000 in cash when arrested. A .30-06-caliber rifle was found in a nearby vehicle Card had been driving, Reed said.

State school board eyes territory changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Petitions for territory transfers between school districts dominate a heavy agenda before the State Board of Education on Monday.

The board also will consider allocating more than $3.9 million for vocational education construction in Columbus and Toledo.

Eight proposed territory transfers involving 14 school districts have been brought before the board by petition of the residents of the territories involved. A public hearing before a referee has been held in each case.

Referees have recommended approval of the following transfers: Bridgeport Exempted Village to Belmont County, Cambridge City to Newcomerstown Exempted Village, Celina City to Coldwater Exempted Village, Coldwater Exempted Village to Celina City, and Youngstown City to Campbell City.

The referees have denied the following transfers: Cincinnati City to Madeira City, Fairborn City to Montgomery County, and North Royalton City to Brecksville City.

The state board will either concur with these decisions, or if not, state reasons why.

In addition, the board will consider a request by the Newark City Board of Education to transfer territory to Newark schools from North Fork Local School District. Referees have recommended that the transfer be denied.

Superintendent of Public Instruction

Martin W. Essex is expected to recommend that a referee be appointed and a public hearing be scheduled on a request by the Findlay City Board of Education to transfer territory recently annexed by the city to Findlay schools from the Van Buren Local School District, Hancock County.

The state board will consider allocation of $2.8 million in matching aid to Columbus City Schools for construction of the new Southeast Career Center.

An allocation of more than $1 million in matching aid to Toledo City Schools will be considered for construction of a vocational addition to Start High School.

In other business, Essex is expected to recommend that the board extend state foundation funding of the Bloomfield Mespo and Farmington local school districts, Trumbull County, through August.

In cooperation with the Trumbull County Board of Education, the two districts are in the process of forming a larger, new district. The board revoked the charters of the two districts in 1971 because they failed to meet minimum standards.

Other business on the state board's agenda includes:

—Consideration of charter requests for five parochial schools.

—Consideration of a proposal to dissolve the current Trumbull County Joint Vocational School District and to establish two vocational planning districts in Trumbull County.

Drowning victim services slated

SABINA—The body of a Midland youth was recovered from the Rocky Fork Lake swimming area at 3:17 a.m. Friday more than 12 hours after the youth drowned.

Jeffrey Lynn Smith, 18, Rt. 1, Midland, was swimming with a number of acquaintances at the lake Thursday afternoon when the incident occurred. There were an estimated 1,500 persons in the water at the time and four lifeguards were on duty.

The youth was first missed when guards called a break at 2:30 p.m. in order to have some illegally parked cars moved to the parking lot. Smith's car was among them. It was not moved.

The boys who were with him said that they did not know him very well and thought that he had left the swimming area. It was not until they saw his car at 5:30 p.m. that they became concerned and contacted park officials.

When the youth had not been located by 8 p.m., the Highland County Sheriff's Department was notified. Divers from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Pickaway County began dragging the lake about 10 p.m.

The body was discovered some five hours later. It was within the swimming area about 60 feet from shore in some eight feet of water.

The Highland County coroner ruled that the death was accidental and occurred at about 1:30 p.m. Thursday. Park officials were quoted as saying that it was the first time in the park's history that anyone had drowned in a legal swimming area while lifeguards were on duty.

projects and others currently under construction in the London area.

The London firm has a 14-home subdivision completed; 24 apartments of a large complex finished and 24 more under construction; 15 individual residences; seven-home subdivisions under way; a 140-apartment project in the planning stages and condominium homes presently being built.

The real estate development partnership was formed in 1967 by Jack Raub, Richard Meade and Ted Hankins and June, all London businessmen. The primary purpose was to build a portfolio of real estate holdings for investments, Hume said. The early holdings were primarily older properties, but in 1969, 20 new apartments were constructed and since that time the company has launched or completed the eight other new residential development projects and has plans for five others, including the proposed apartment complex for Washington C.H.

The four partners of the Four-in-One Partnership are also owners of Four-in-One Construction, Inc., and Hankins Realty, Inc., of London. Hankins is a nephew of Washington C.H. real estate broker Harford Hankins.

Hume pointed out that the firm has 100 per cent occupancy of its residential developments and full-time maintenance personnel are employed by the company.

AN APPLICATION for a zoning district change submitted by Robert E. Lewis, 1017 Clinton Ave., was tabled by planning commission members.

The application requested that an 0.42-acre tract of land, situated on the south side of Clinton Avenue, 142.5 feet east of Fairview Avenue and west of lot 15 in the Elmwood Addition be changed from R-2 to B-1 zoning. Wolford said zoning is for a neighborhood business district.

Planning commission members tabled the request pending the legality of a proposed restrictive clause which would permit the rezoning contingent upon the approval of building plans.

The city's planners took that step since Lewis said he was not in a position to disclose his future intentions for the property. Lewis did state, however, that he intends to erect a building which will cost approximately $80,000 on the site. He said he had been approached by two parties who were willing to enter into a long-term lease agreement on the undisclosed development.

Washington C.H. attorney Robert Brubaker, representing Lewis, said the undisclosed development "would not be changing the character of the neighborhood since its (the area) is already partially zoned for business."

Billie Wilson, a City Council member who owns property adjoining the proposed development, said he objected to the rezoning since the future plans were not disclosed.

A variance was recently granted by the City Zoning Board of Appeals to permit the United Farm Agency to open a real estate office in a two-story brick residence on Clinton Avenue.

Planning commission members were scheduled to hear general planning trends discussed by Mark Lonner, representing the Ralph Woolpert Co., Planners, of Dayton, but Lonner was forced to cancel his appearance at the meeting.

Humphrey finances under investigation

NEW YORK (AP) — The finances of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's 1968 and 1972 presidential campaigns are under investigation by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, according to CBS television.

The network also reported Thursday that sources in Jaworski's office said investigators were concentrating on contributions to the Minnesota Democrat from figures in the dairy industry.

A Senate Watergate committee report has said Humphrey got $200,000 from the same dairy sources who contributed to President Nixon's re-election campaign. Humphrey expressed the belief that he had not done anything wrong.

In an interview at his Waverly, Minn., home Humphrey told CBS he lived in Wright County, the largest dairy county in the nation.

"For one to say that the contribution in the dairy cooperative to Hubert Humphrey was buying a bill or a vote would be the same thing as saying a contribution in Texas from an independent oil company was buying a vote," said Humphrey.

Nixon clot permanent

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon's doctor says Nixon was warned that a permanent blood clot in his left leg might kill him during his Middle East trip but that the President insisted on going ahead with travel plans.

Tkach for the first time disclosed Nixon has thrombophlebitis, which he said involves the presence of a permanent blood clot in his left leg.

"The clot is pretty well fixed," Tkach said, explaining it has attached itself to the wall of a vein and no longer is likely

Ferris wheel mishap fatal

NEW RICHMOND, Ohio (AP) — An Amelia woman was killed and her husband seriously injured when they plunged about 25 feet from a ferris wheel at New Richmond's Independence Day street fair Thursday night.

The woman, Sharon Kahle, 20, died early today at a Cincinnati hospital. Her husband, Kenneth, also 20, was listed in "serious condition at Cincinnati Bethesda Hospital.

New Richmond Police Chief Harold Kennedy, who witnessed the accident, said a bolt holding the safety bar on the Kahle's seat apparently broke. Kennedy said Kahle grabbed for his wife, the seat tipped and both plunged to the pavement below.

The police chief said there were 20-25 people on the ferris wheel at the time and it was moving.

Humphrey also denied reports that he accepted $50,000 in cash from Howard Hughes in exchange for helping the billionaire industrialist halt underground nuclear testing in Nevada, where Hughes has extensive holdings.

"Mr. Hughes' man, Mr. Maheu, did present the case to me," Humphrey said. "I sent it to the Atomic Energy Commission. The AEC ruled against it and that was the last of it." Robert A. Maheu formerly headed the Nevada operations owned by Hughes.

Humphrey said charges of other corporate contributions also were being investigated "and properly should."

Asked about his donation to his 1972 campaign of $110,000 of his own money that was held in a blind trust, he said:

"I felt when I gave my own money I was doing something that was a sacrifice and so help me, I've really been in a kind of tizzy about it. I'd never believe that anybody would be criticized for giving his own money to his own campaign, except possibly by your wife."

to break loose and go to his heart or lung—a development that could prove fatal.

An Army major general, Tkach said he considered hospitalization for Nixon at the time the President first told him of leg swelling. But he said Nixon, who had kept the ailment secret from him for several days, was insistent on going forward with his Middle East trip although "we told him what the potential hazards would be of a clot breaking off and hitting his heart or lung."

Tkach said Nixon informed him of the swollen left leg after arriving in Salzburg, Austria, on June 10 en route to the Mideast.

For several weeks, the White House has declined to describe Nixon's phlebitis as involving a blood clot but Tkach acknowledged the President has one.

"The clot will always be there," he said, adding that the swelling results from blood forcing its way past the area of clotting.

Tkach also disclosed Nixon was given medication for a week during his overseas journey—something the White House had denied repeatedly. He would not name the drug.

Not to be outdone by the royalty bestowed on their sister, Holly, two other Croker children received trophies during the holiday ceremonies. Brother Patrick's pet dogs were chosen as the best group of pets, and Eric proved himself a trophy winner in ping pong competition. The three combined to make it an exceptionally exciting day for the Croker family.

More than 35 of the exchange students participated in the American Field Service talent show Thursday evening. Most of them then attended the Jaycee dance with their American hosts. Both the talent show and the dance were held in the Mahan Building.

NUMEROUS COMPETITIVE events were held at the Fairgrounds during the afternoon. Floyd Rayburn, winner of the horseshoe pitching competition, successfully defended the title which earned by winning the event last year.

Balloting for the outstanding clown in the parade was deadlocked and Kimberley Irons and Denise Quesinberry were named co-winners.

Four youngsters were awarded trophies in the pet show. Tony Harter brought the prettiest pet; Micki Anthony, the most unusual; Patrick Croker, the best group of pets; and Kevin Mongold, the best trained pet.

Young ladies captured all the honors in the frog-jumping competition. The winners were Kelly Mickle, first; Marsha Anthony, second; and Whitney Mickle, third.

Stock list weakens

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices weakened today in the face of a spreading 12 per cent prime lending rate.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was fractionally lower, and declines took a slight lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

New York's two biggest banks — First National City and Chase Manhattan — as well as large banks in Pittsburgh and Detroit joined this morning in a quarter-point increase in the prime which was posted by several banks on Wednesday.

Analysts said it appeared the strong upward pressures on money rates that have dogged the stock market for the past several months were continuing unabated.

Today's prices on the Big Board included Royal Dutch Petroleum, down 5/8 at 28; Kennecott, down 1/8 at 31 1/2; Ball Corp., down 1/2 at 9 1/2; and Kellogg, up 1/8 at 14 1/2.

The markets were closed Thursday for the July 4 holiday.

Cooler, dryer air spread over the state today, bringing clear skies, first to northwestern counties.

Some thundershowers were forecast to continue over eastern counties until late today when the cold front which triggered them moves out of the state.

Temperatures this afternoon were forecast in the upper 70s and low 80s, compared with the 90-degree readings Independence Day. The cooler weather will continue into the weekend with lows Saturday morning in the upper 50s and afternoon highs in the low to mid 80s.

The front responsible for the change in weather triggered showers and thundershowers over most of northern and central Ohio during the night.

Locally severe weather was reported in northern Ohio Thursday night, continuing past midnight in Erie and Lorain counties.

Fair Sunday and Monday. A chance of showers and a little cooler Tuesday. Highs in the low to mid 80s Sunday and Monday and in the upper 70s and low 80s Tuesday. Lows in the 50s early Sunday, increasing to the low to mid 60s Tuesday.

Storms mar U.S. holiday

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms that poured rain on many Fourth of July parades continued today in sections of the Northeast where an early summer heat wave drove temperatures into the 90s over the holiday.

Storms of diminishing intensity, meanwhile, centered over the Rockies and New England, and from the Ohio Valley into the lower Mississippi Valley.

Skies were clear from the Southwest through the central Plains and Rockies to the Great Lakes. Elsewhere partly cloudy to cloudy skies prevailed.

Cool to moderate temperatures prevailed through most of the upper Great Lakes, middle Mississippi Valley and central Plains, but hot weather persisted in the Southwest. Conditions remained warm and humid over most Gulf States as well as the Eastern Seaboard.

Church of England losing wealth

YORK, England (AP) — Inflation is draining away the wealth of the Church of England, but this enforced poverty may lead to spiritual enrichment, the next Archbishop of Canterbury said today.

Dr. Donald Coggan, the present Archbishop of York who succeeds Dr. Michael Ramsey in November as spiritual leader of the church and of the worldwide Anglican Communion, cited a newspaper editorial that said Britain is facing an "inflationary disaster."

"These are grave and weighty words, and we neglect them at our peril," he told the General Synod of the church at the opening of its summer session.

"That the church in the coming years will be stripped of much of its possessions through the exigencies of the economic situation is almost certain. But must this be regarded as an unmitigated disaster?"

"Could it not be a case of God stripping His church for action? May it not be a means of revelation, a call to hear what the spirit is saying to the churches?"

The archbishop decried selfishness, the lack of a sense of vocation in many jobs and "an educational system which overdevelops the acquisitive and competitive instinct, rather than eliciting the wide variety of gifts which can be found in any given classroom full of children."

A number of churches in England have had to sell their gold and silver plate in recent months, both to maintain their parish work and the church buildings. The treasures are legacies

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Most Ohioans favor the death penalty, while they do not favor terminating the lives of terminally ill patients upon their own requests, a copyrighted opinion poll has shown.

Seven out of 10 Ohioans surveyed said they favored a mandatory death penalty for certain violent crimes, according to the Ohio Poll, a state opinion-measuring organization financed by Ohio newspapers.

But only 44 per cent of those polled said they favored permitting doctors to end the lives of terminally ill patients, even when both the patient and his family request it.

The survey, published Thursday, included 623 persons whose demographic profile, including age, sex, income, education and geographic distribution, matched those of the entire state, the polling organization said.

The survey revealed some evidence that the general public is more in favor of the death penalty than state lawmakers.

The legislature passed a death penalty law last year that allows the death sentence to be reduced to life imprisonment under certain circumstances.

Seventy per cent of those surveyed said they favored a mandatory death penalty with no discretion to reduce the sentence.

The death penalty has stronger support among older people, the poll indicated. Of those aged 18-30, only 52 per cent favored the mandatory death penalty.

The percentage rose to 69 per cent for persons aged 31-45, 73 per cent for those aged 45-64 and 80 per cent among persons over 65.

White respondents, the Ohio Poll said, favored the death penalty 73-19, while blacks polled approved by only 47 per cent, with 38 per cent opposed.

Support of euthanasia is strongest among young people, the poll indicated, 52 per cent supporting the concept. Only 41 per cent of those over 65 said they favored it, however.

Roman Catholics polled showed 78 per cent in favor of the death penalty, but only 34 per cent in favor of euthanasia, the poll said.

Among Protestants, polled, 69 per cent said they favored the death penalty and 48 per cent favored mercy killing, the poll indicated.

Among Jewish respondents, 72 per cent approved the death penalty while 76 per cent favored euthanasia.

The copyrighted poll was published in the Thursday afternoon editions of the sponsoring newspapers.

Rebuke in DC-10 case

A Senate subcommittee's rebuke of the Federal Aviation Administration and others sharing responsibility for failure to push through recommended cargo door improvements on the DC-10 passenger plane is well deserved. There is good reason to believe that had the FAA, the National Transportation Safety Board and the McDonnell Douglas Corp. acted with greater zeal the March 3 DC-10 crash near Paris which took 346 lives might have been averted. One cannot go so far as to say "would have been averted," the Senate report notes that this is a speculative matter. The fact remains that proposed changes following a near-crash of a DC-10 in June 1972 under similar circumstances were not promptly made. Nor did federal agencies use to the full their authority to insist on this.

The subcommittee report rightly concludes that "the regulatory process designed to protect the public from unsafe conditions which could lead to air transportation disasters were circumvented in the DC-10 cargo door problem instance." It further declares: "We expect a better pattern of performance in the future." That, we would say, is putting it rather mildly.

New Left bows to comic books

Mark Singer, writing in the Yale Alumni Magazine, complains that the "communal generation" that has attended Yale since the mid-'60s has not had a sense of humor. What we get, he says, is a standoff between the sarcasm of the political Right and the righteous indignation of the Left, with no genial common ground between them.

Humor, according to Mr. Singer, demands a closely-knit camaraderie, a collective personality that, paradoxically, does not flower when communal political theories prevail.

Stan Lee, who publishes comic books, would say that Mr. Singer is off his rocker about the solemn student. The campuses have been eating up the comic books — more than 50,000 students now pay a dollar each to belong to a comic book society, with chapters on more than a hundred campuses. Some three hundred million comic books are sold annually, with the young taking 25 per cent of them.

The question, of course, is, how funny are the comic books? I suppose that Spiderman, the anti-hero antithesis to Superman, represents a comic idea, but the detail is not exactly hilarious. However, when you come to Crazy Magazine, which has great campus acceptance, you are in genuinely funny territory. Crazy runs scripts about the ultimate student strike, with the demonstrators protesting that they are sick of living in a permissive society and demanding disciplinary action as a proof that they are being treated as men.

THE POPULARITY of the comic books could be a reflection on what is deemed to be "relevant" in more serious literature. Comics have a beginning, a middle and an end; they tell stories. The modern novel does not. Comic syntax is on a primitive level, but at least it exists. You can't say the same for syntax in modern poetry. So the comics may be the ultimate student commentary on the English department.

What the comics have to say about the turn on the campus is corroborated by the latest Daniel Yankelovich survey of youthful attitudes. The Yankelovich organization held 3,522 one-to-two-hour personal interviews with young people, both college and non-college, and made the strange discovery that the undergraduate population tends to be more conservative than non-college types.

The central theme on today's campus, according to the Yankelovich pollsters, is "how to find self-fulfillment within a conventional career." (In the '60s, the central idea was how to find self-fulfillment outside of conventional work.) Violence, today, is rejected, the value of education is strongly endorsed, life styles are no longer an index to political orientation, there is lessening criticism of America as a "sick society," and the work ethic appears to be strengthened on the campus (though it has been growing weaker in youthful blue collar quarters).

Generally speaking, the gap between the younger generation and mainstream America has narrowed, the result of a convergence which has witnessed the spread of the so-called "new values" — a relaxed attitude toward sex, hair-styles, etc. — to every segment of the population.

Scattered efforts will confuse, lead you off course. You can win big gains if you buckle down to essentials and STAY with them.

Wait for needed facts before taking action, but don't dally so long that you actually lose out on opportunities. Stress good judgment.

happened before, as the film adaptation of F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Great Gatsby" should remind us. When Fitzgerald wrote "This Side of Paradise," at the end of World War I, a still puritanical country was appalled by the behavior of the flapper generation. Then "cultural diffusion" prevailed, and later on in the '20s, by the time Gatsby was throwing his big parties on Long Island, everybody was getting into the act. When John O'Hara, Fitzgerald's successor, wrote his "Appointment in Samarra," Greenwich Village had conquered the country club set.

Came the Depression, and the whole scene changed once more. Proving, of course, that Yankelovich surveys are for the moment only.

Who knows what this country would do if (a) it were to be deprived of free use of the automobile, or (b) if none of the Western nations can solve the problem of inflation, or (c) if the Soviets were to overrun Europe? Any one of these things could happen. Maybe all three.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Consider results from past actions or decisions you intend repeating. If they were inadequate, strive to better your efforts this time.

CAPRICORN

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

After the trial of Jay D. Gordon and John A. Whiteside was dismissed as a mistrial, the jurors read the following in the June 27th Record-Herald:

Eleven of the 12 jurors admitted that they had read coverage of the trial which appeared in Tuesday's Record-Herald, "in spite of the fact that they had been instructed by the judge not to allow themselves to be exposed to reports by the media," or discussion of the case even amongst themselves, etc.

We, as honest, conscientious and patriotic jurors, (for many it was our first experience as a juror) question the authenticity of the cause for the mistrial. We were told by the judge, many times, not to discuss anything with anyone — not even amongst ourselves, but had never been instructed not to read reports of media. In fact, we were all surprised to see the article of June 26th in the Record-Herald. If you remember this was the article telling all that had taken place Monday June 24th when court was in session plus the name of the witness who had escaped (the last neither a reporter nor the jurors heard during the trial). How did the local paper receive this information and why was it published for everyone to read, including the jurors, before the trial was finished?

We feel that we, as jurors, have been wrongfully accused as being the cause of the mistrial and want the public to know. Larry P. Wright Ann Garringer Wayne Vanmeter Constance P. Burke Robert L. Calentine Lottie Wycott Jean K. King Dorothy E. Wright William C. Allen David Boswell Margaret Snyder

EDITOR'S NOTE: The name of the witness, who jurors refer to in the letter was reported by a Record-Herald staffer who was covering the trial. Judge Coffman had announced the name during an open session of court while the jury had been dismissed, but in the presence of the reporter and spectators.

Obscenity bill given new push

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Donna Pope, R-12 Parma, hopes a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision will be the lever to pry her bill redefining obscenity out of the House Rules Committee.

The Suprme Court, in a case involving the film "Carnal Knowledge," said a community could apply its own standards in deciding what is obscene rather than use broader standards.

That is exactly the intent of Mrs. Pope's bill.

The bill takes into consideration what may be considered obscene in one portion of the state would be so judged in another. Contemporary community standards rather than national or state standards would be a key element in deciding obscenity.

Mrs. Pope is the wife of Cleveland police Sgt. Raymond Pope, a member of the vice squad. Sgt. Pope arrested a theater manager for showing the movie "Deep Throat."

A Common Pleas court called the movie obscene, but that decision was overturned by the 8th District Court of Appeals. The Ohio Supreme Court upheld the reversal.

The City of Cleveland has indicated it may take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Sen. Robert E. Secrest, D-20 Cambridge, won at least one victory in the waning hours of the recessed 110th General Assembly.

He won the state Senate pool on what time the chamber would adjourn.

Secrest picked 12 midnight. Adjournment came at 1:12 a.m.

The Cambridge lawmaker, a veteran of government, said he had been around long enough to know lawmakers can't quit before midnight on the final day of a session.

"We're just a bunch of lazy farmers," he said. "We piddle around all year, then try to get all the hay up just before the rain."

Rep. Walter D. McClaskey, R-86 Marion, turned down a colleague who wanted him to vote against an omnibus courts bill that included addition of a common pleas judge in his home county.

The insistent colleague argued that a legislative study was being made to determine the need for new judges statewide.

"I've seen too many studies that end up in nothing," said the 54-year-old veterinarian, a first-termer in the House. "I'm voting for this bill."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Inner beauty hidden by an 'ugly' exterior

DEAR ABBY: Regarding that "Double Ugly" guy who think ugliness is a curse because no one wants to associate with a physically ugly people. You said, "Ugliness-like beauty, lies in the eye of the beholder. The qualities that make one loved and wanted have nothing to do with the way one's face is formed. Honesty, patience, kindness, generosity—all the virtues—can be developed. A beautiful character counts for more with people who count than physical beauty."

Abby, you missed the whole point. This ugly person should seek out the blind for friends. He should volunteer to help in a school for the blind, or get a job there.

They say if a deaf lion roars in the desert, there is no sound. Nothing looks ugly to those who cannot see, so forget all that rot about developing honesty, kindness and a beautiful character, and give the poor guy some practical advice. He might find what he's looking for in the world of the sightless.

PRAGMATIST

DEAR PRAG.: Who says: "If a deaf lion roars in the desert, there is no sound?" Just because the lion can't hear the sound he makes, doesn't mean it's nonexistent.

To suggest that physically ugly people should seek out the blind in order to be loved is an insult to the sightless. Although they are unable to see physical ugliness, they are better able to "see" those qualities which are far more intrinsic to a person's real worth than physical beauty. So if a physically ugly person has an ugly character, he should stay away from the blind-for they may "see" him better than those with 20-20 vision.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to Double Ugly: I have never met an ugly person I didn't like. They have personality plus!

When I was a young girl, I learned the little fellows with the big freckles and the stringy red hair that hung in their yellow-green eyes were the ones to ask a favor of. The handsome guys were too busy thinking about themselves.

Mr. Ugly, I like you already, for you have shown a lot of character and humility by asking for help with your problem. That is beauty right there! So you see, you aren't as ugly as you thought you were.

ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ABBY: When I first saw this nurse, I said to myself: "That has got to be the ugliest woman I've ever seen!" She was shapely like a pear, had a pock-marked complexion, an enormous nose and buck teeth, and she wore thick glasses.

But an hour later, after watching her work with disturbed children, and observing her gentle, patient, kind loving personality, I completely forgot about her looks.

Everyone who knew her adores her. She had the disposition of an angel and a way of bringing out the best in people. If I had to name the most beautiful woman I've ever met, I would have to say that nurse wins, hands down.

WASHINGTON
REPORT
From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

It is surprising and very frightening what a computer can tell a complete stranger about you. In 30 seconds, using only a person's social security number as a code, a computer bank can spew out some 30 pages of personal data on an individual.

We have become conditioned to pour out the facts of our daily affairs — all under the guise of a social security number. Today, one can hardly get a credit card, drivers license or voter registration without their social security tag. The information they supply for these various things more often than not ends up in some computer bank where it is compiled and stored for future reference.

THAT "Future reference" is beginning to bother many citizens and quite rightly so. There are 858 federal data banks containing more than one-and-one-quarter billion records involving personal information about individuals and more than 86 per cent of them are computerized.

A recent investigation of these data banks showed that only 10 per cent of them are authorized by law. Twenty-nine of these banks contain derogatory "blacklist" information. Furthermore, 40 per cent of them do not tell citizens that records are kept on them; half of the banks do not allow subjects to review or correct their files, and more than one-third do not allow file subjects access to their own records.

If that isn't disturbing enough, the story gets even worse. More than 60 per cent of these data banks regularly share their files with other agencies, and some agencies — including the Internal Revenue Service and Selective Service — distribute information to other parts of the government despite pledges of confidentiality. The IRS, in fact, peddles its official registration lists of gun collectors to mail order firearms companies for one-tenth of a cent per name. And, the review boards for Medicare and Medicaid have been given the authority to probe the medical records of any patient in the United States.

Wildlife stamp plan proves disastrous

By JIM DAUBEL
Written for Associated Press

If not exactly brilliant, the idea of selling a state stamp to benefit Ohio wildlife had merit when the program was undertaken two years ago.

By all accounts, however, the project has been an unmitigated disaster ever since, observers say.

Division of Wildlife officials have long been troubled by the fact that fish and wildlife programs in Ohio are financed exclusively by hunters and fishermen.

The division receives no general tax revenues. Its budget deprives entirely from hunting and fishing license fees and Ohio's share of federal taxes on firearms and ammunition.

Yet fisheries and wildlife research, propagation, preservation and habitat improvements benefit all Ohioans, division personnel say.

Wildlife lands managed for fall hunting also provide habitat that supports many species appreciated by non hunting bird watchers, nature lovers, hikers and others who do not contribute to upkeep of the areas.

So in June 1972, the division amid much publicity and fanfare offered for sale at $5 each the state's first wildlife stamp.

Designed by an Ohio artist and showing two cardinals, the state bird, the stamp went on sale in at least one location in all 88 counties.

People who love wildlife but do not help finance wildlife programs could contribute through voluntary purchase of the stamps, officials noted.

Some 48,000 stamps were printed, about one year's supply, according to preliminary sale estimates.

Two years later a grand total of 2,200 stamps have been sold.

The program has been such a bust, wildlife officials concede, that stamps distributed to state parks for sale have Unfortunately, nobody has been given the authority or the mandate to protect the privacy of individuals involved. There is every indication that there will be some changes made soon to stop this dangerous computer invasion of privacy. Hearings are now being conducted in the Senate on possible legislation to safeguard the rights of privacy of individuals who are the subjects of these information systems.

Several bills have also been introduced in the House of Representatives dealing with this same subject. One would guarantee an individual the right of access to all personal information files being kept on him, whether they are in profit or non-profit organizations or in any branch of the government. A person would also be able to challenge any false or misleading information about him and to block the transfer of personal data to third parties. This information could include education, financial transactions, medical and employment records and lifestyle.

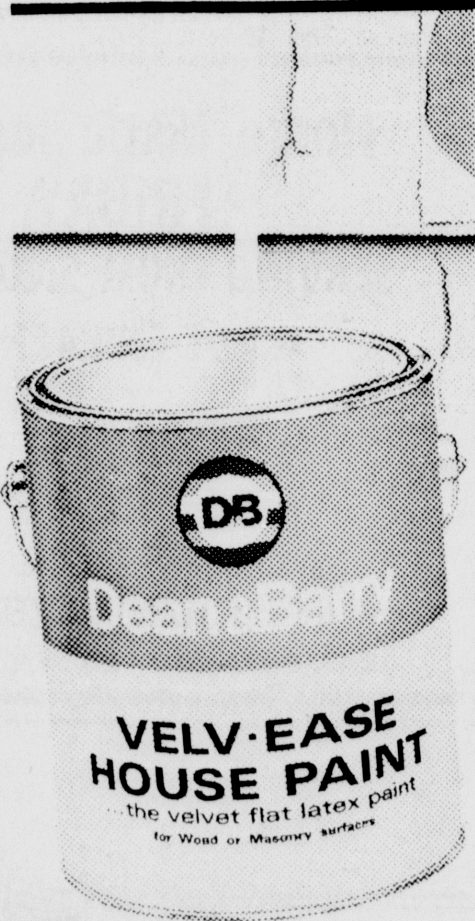

INFORMATION files would have to be maintained accurately and completely and governed by a strict code of secrecy. Special treatment and classification would have to be given to information which is particularly sensitive in nature. Finally, individuals would have to be notified whenever a personal data file is being maintained on them and would be able to obtain a record of this material at a reasonable cost. There would also be important provisions to prohibit the indiscriminate use of the social security number, the distribution of census information by ZIP code and to allow individuals to have their names removed from mailing lists.

The sooner this type of legislation is put on the law books the better, and I am hopeful that Congress will be able to do so this year. The advancement of the age of the computer need not, and must not, mean the decline of individual right to privacy.

been returned to Columbus and park distribution halted.

Ironically, sportsmen appear to be buying a large share of the stamps.

Although only one in 689 visitors buys a stamp at the Migratory Bird Center near Crane Creek State Park, for example, 50 per cent of those who do make the purchase are sportsmen who also pay $4 to hunt and fish each year, statistics indicate.

Distrust grows over U.S. economic policies

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Distrust is growing in American business circles about the concepts and techniques of economic management, especially in regard to inflation control. And with it grows a distrust of leadership also.

While formal surveys may not as yet prove there is widespread disillusionment about concepts and leadership, there is little question in discussions with businessmen that many harbor deep distrusts.

Many factors are involved, chief among them being:

—A wavering economic policy in Washington that suggests confusion rather than understanding. Repeated promises that conditions are bound to improve add to the doubts by suggesting hope rather than knowledge.

—The documented failure of monetary policy, as practiced today and on which the country now is relying heavily in the battle with inflation, to have a pronounced, prolonged impact.

—The conviction among practical businessmen that high interest rates are merely adding to their costs, and their prices, rather than discouraging borrowing.

—A feeling that the minds of economic leaders may be closed to suggestions and differing opinions, in favor of "textbook" theories.

The latter feeling is fueled to a great degree by the apparent determination of Arthur F. Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, to continue a relatively tight money policy to the brink of depression.

The refusal of the administration's new economic spokesman, Kenneth Rush, to discuss his views before congressional committees, adds to the feeling that the economic dialogue is being smothered at the very time it needs an airing.

The necessity for discussion of monetary policy, for example, is made startlingly clear by the record, which shows that the prime rate now is more than double that of seven years ago, a period during which prices soared.

The current rate varies from 11.5 per cent to 11.75 per cent, with one large bank at 11.8 per cent. In midyear 1967 the rate generally was about 5.5 per cent. It's rise since then has been accompanied by the worst inflation in a generation.

"There's no question about the ability of tight money to create a depression," argues John Beckett, chairman of Transamerica Corp. He adds pointedly: "Whether it can cure inflation is a moot point."

While Beckett is only one of scores of businessmen who hold such views, his opinions are particularly significant because his is a multibillion-dollar service company, heavily involved in insurance and consumer and commercial loans.

Beckett says interest rates are usually passed on to customers in the form of higher prices.

As do other businessmen, Beckett feels that monetary policy might work if it weren't aborted along the way. That is, if a depression were permitted — and Beckett says he is willing to accept it — inflation might be restrained.

"If a depression were permitted to run its course it would do the job, but the politicians won't let it." When the going gets tough, he said, the deficit spenders will step in and stop the cure — and add to future inflation.

"All inflation is, is the taxes you should have been paying all these years and didn't," he said. "The obvious answer is that you've got to run surpluses in government and pay back the debts we already have."

Other businessmen and financiers hold that higher interest rates are frustrating rather than aiding the nation's anti-inflation program. Some even maintain that an easy rather than tight money policy is the answer.

Miss Houser, Mr. Henize exchange marriage vows

The First Presbyterian Church in Washington C.H. was the setting for the marriage of Miss Judy K. Houser and Frank R. Henize.

Miss Houser is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson E. Houser of Mount Sterling, and the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Bryant. Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Henize of 10279 Post Rd., are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat officiated for the double ring ceremony. Mrs. John P. Case, organist, presented a half hour of traditional wedding music. Seven branch candelabra were on both sides of the altar filled with baskets of pink and blue carnations, pointed daisies, baby's breath and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Houser chose for her wedding a Chantilly lace gown over taffeta. Ruffles circled the front and back bodice, with sheer sleeves that ended in ruffles as did her chapel length train. Her Juliet headpiece was of Chantilly lace and seeded pearls, and attached to the finger tip veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses, pink and blue ribbons tied in lovers knots. Her only jewelry was a diamond cross necklace, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Ruth Fleeger of Lafayette, Ind., was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a pastel blue chiffonover taffeta gown trimmed in white lace and long sheer sleeves.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lisa Louis, and Beverly Hayslip of Wilmington, cousin of the bride. They wore identical gowns of pink floral chiffon over taffeta with ruffles accenting the bodice. They also wore matching garden hats trimmed in ribbons streamers and each carried a colonial bouquet identical to that of the bride.

Miss Michelle Helt, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a pink polyester gown with floral bodice and matching ribbon in her hair. She carried a white lace basket filled with flower and rose petals which she scattered down the aisle.

The bride's mother chose a pink polyester gown with empire waist, jewel neckline and long sheer sleeves with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue polyester gown with empire waist, jewel neckline and long sheer sleeves. Both wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

John Henize of Philadelphia, Pa., and brother of the groom, served as best man. Ralph Henize and Don Fleeger seated the wedding guests.

Hostesses for the reception held for the couple in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Houser were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henize. A meal was served from the dining room. A pink and blue decor prevailed. A bridal couple on a white bell hung from the chandelier, and a three tiered wedding cake decorated with pink flowers, green leaves and sugar bells topped with a bride and groom figurine, centered the lace-covered table. Mrs. Millie Helt presided at the guest book.

The new Mrs. Henize is a graduate of Miami Trace High School. Her husband, a graduate of Paulsboro High School, Paulsboro, N.J., is employed in Columbus.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a pink, white and blue pantsuit. Her corsage was red roses.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hayslip, Miss Beverly Hayslip, Rickey Hayslip, Mrs. Barbara Byant, and Mrs. Violet Walls of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore of Clarksville; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Henize of West Depford, N. J.; John Henize of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Henize of Batavia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frey, Ronald Frey of Williamsburgh; and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Frey of Newtonville.

Seven members of the Posy Garden Club met with Mrs. Fred Rivenburgh, the president, for the postponed June meeting.

Mrs. Albert Bihl read a note of appreciation from the board of the United Methodist Church of Madison Mills for the new shrubs planted at the church, the planters and fresh flowers in church each Sunday, projects furnished by the Posy Garden Club.

The club has joined the American Gesneriad and Saintpaulia (African violet Society) and the first issue of the Gesneriad and Saintpaulia news was reviewed by Mrs. Bihl. The magazines will be added to the club library for reference.

It's cookie bake-off time!

Cookie, cookie, who wants a cookie?

Young people have been turning out cookies at the Fayette County Junior Fair Cookie Bake-Off for the past 10 years. Brown sugar cookies, peanut butter cookies, oatmeal cookies and all kind of variations have been mixed by contestants, judged by judges, and sampled by parents and friends at this youth activity. All youth groups are invited to participate—Camp Fire, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Future Homemakers of America, Future Farmers of America, and 4-H Club members ages 9-18. Classes are divided into three age groupings for 4th, 5th and 6th grades, 7th, 8th and 9th grades and 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

Members of the Bake-Off committee are Mrs. Robert Pero, Mrs. Ed Davis, Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Mrs. Frank Sanderson and Miss Barbara Vance.

Entry blanks are available at the Extension Office and from 4-H, Camp Fire, Girl Scout and FHA leaders and advisers and turned in no later than July 12 (Thursday).

Six contestants at a time have one hour to mix and bake their cookies. Each contestant must provide his own ingredients and utensils. All mixing, measuring and preparation will be done during the Bake-Off. No pre-measured ingredients are to be used. Judging will take place during these operations. It will be based on the techniques of the contestants and the products of their efforts.

All contestants will use the same recipe of Molessis Crinkles. This recipe is available from the Extension office and those leaders with entry blanks.

Judges for the Bake-Off are from the Fayette County Professional Home Economics Club who donate their time.

Prizes are awarded each group winner and a final grand prize is given to the top winner at the Bake-off finals at 10 a.m. Friday, July 26. All contestants will be awarded $1.00.

Bi-racial child wins family love

By SHIRLEY VANDEBERG
Mount Vernon News

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Christopher Stephen Godfrey is a lucky little boy. He has a home and it's permanent.

Chris is a bi-racial child, who starts with one strike against him in a matter of adoption.

But, the Rev. and Mrs. Roy Godfrey found Chris and brought him into their home with their natural daughters, Jill and Jenny. Chris is 5 now and he has been a Godfrey since he was nine weeks old.

Chris is half white and half black. It might have been difficult to find adoptive parents, but the Godfreys applied for such a child. Chris was the answer and the Godfreys couldn't have been more pleased.

When the Godfreys made up their minds to adopt a bi-racial child they told their families. The response was described as wonderful with the exception of one relative on each side of the family. These negative feelings passed quickly after they learned to know Chris.

"We felt the adoption would help our children with social awareness, be an enriching experience and help them learn that their parents practice what they believe," said Mrs. Godfrey.

To Jenny and Jill, Chris is a natural part of their home life and the children are quite close, the mother said.

From the beginning the Godfreys did not try to hide to their girls the fact that Chris's skin was a different color than their skin. The parents felt that bringing Chris into their lives was even more special to the family unit since the girls could share the joy of a new baby.

As for Chris, the Godfreys knew he realized even at an early age that he was of a different skin color so they began explaining on a level he could comprehend why they had adopted him.

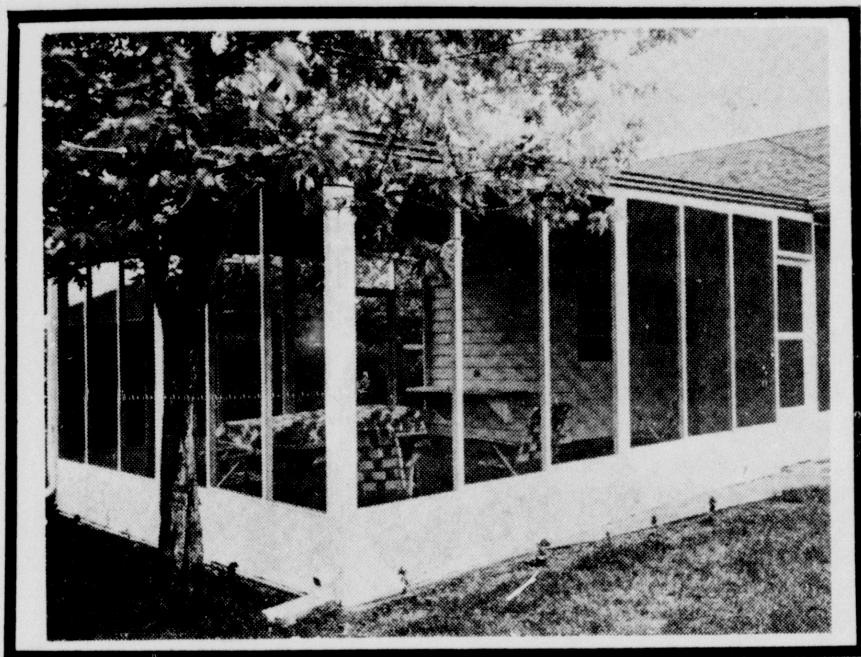

"We told him the truth and that we wanted him very much," said the Rev. Mr. Godfrey.

Mrs. Godfrey took it a step farther and told Chris that his natural mother loved him so much that she wanted him to have someone who could take good care of him so she had to give him away.

The Godfreys have not thus far encountered problems or discrimination by having adopted Chris.

"We think the love Chris is learning will help him cope with problems that may arise," said the Rev. Mr. Godfrey.

New FBI office building ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 12 years of planning and construction, the FBI is preparing to move in September to a gigantic and costly new building towering over a full block of Pennsylvania Avenue.

The moving itself may take as long as eight months, FBI officials said.

When the transition is complete, the FBI's vast headquarters operations will be housed in one building for the first time and the building itself will become Washington's biggest monument to the man who dominated the agency for four decades, the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Named for Hoover after his death, the building was authorized by Congress in 1962, but it took another six years before construction began.

Sprawled halfway between the White House and the Capitol, the sand-colored concrete structure sits across the avenue from the FBI's parent agency, the Justice Department.

Blacks join state agency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three years ago there was only one black employee in an administrative position in Ohio's public welfare system.

Now, the department says, there are 13 black persons holding top management positions, or 18 per cent of the total management work force.

In a statement released today, the Welfare Department said 25.3 per cent of its professional staff and 29 per cent of its total employees are nonwhite.

In the last three months of 1973, 66.6 per cent of the new administrators and managers who were hired were non-white, as were 23 per cent of all new employees hired, according to the department.

During the first three months of this year, the department said, nearly a third of the new employees hired were non-white.

The absence on boards of directors of outside thinkers whose function is to inject bridges of understanding with outside groups is one of the most common reasons that many organizations find the human climate stormy. So says Philip Lesly in his book, "The People Factor: Managing the Human Climate."

headquarters staff currently use offices in the Justice Department building. But computer systems, the fingerprint division and some other operations are in eight buildings scattered around Washington.

Currently, the FBI must move hundreds of records from one location to another daily. The records, encased in locked metal boxes, are shuttled under guard in vans.

Thomas Jenkins, deputy associate FBI director in charge of administration, said no files have been lost or stolen in the shuttle service, "but you always run that chance the more you have to move them."

Jenkins said the new quarters will enable the FBI to increase its daily tourist capacity from 3,500 to 5,000.

The FBI tour is a popular attraction for Washington visitors, especially in the summer, when long waiting lines often form.

"We feel bad when we have to cut them off out there on 10th Street and they've come all the way from Seattle," he said.

Jenkins and Assistant Director Eugene Walsh said the structure's cost amounts to $126 million, more than double that first estimated by Congress a dozen years ago.

Constructed in one 11-story section and another seven-story section, the building will accommodate about 7,400 employees and contains underground parking for about 500. The structure surrounds a landscaped open courtyard with a fountain.

Lake campground opening delayed

Opening of the Taylor Road campground at Paint Creek Lake near Greenfield has been delayed.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Huntington, W. Va. District office announced that poor construction weather has further delayed the scheduled opening of the campground. The area is located off Rapid Forge Road between Bainbridge and Greenfield.

At the recent dedication ceremony on June 15, a Corps spokesman said that June 29 was the target date for opening part of camp area.

No firm date is being set at this time, since the weather is a controlling factor.

Holiday traffic toll hits 136

By The Associated Press

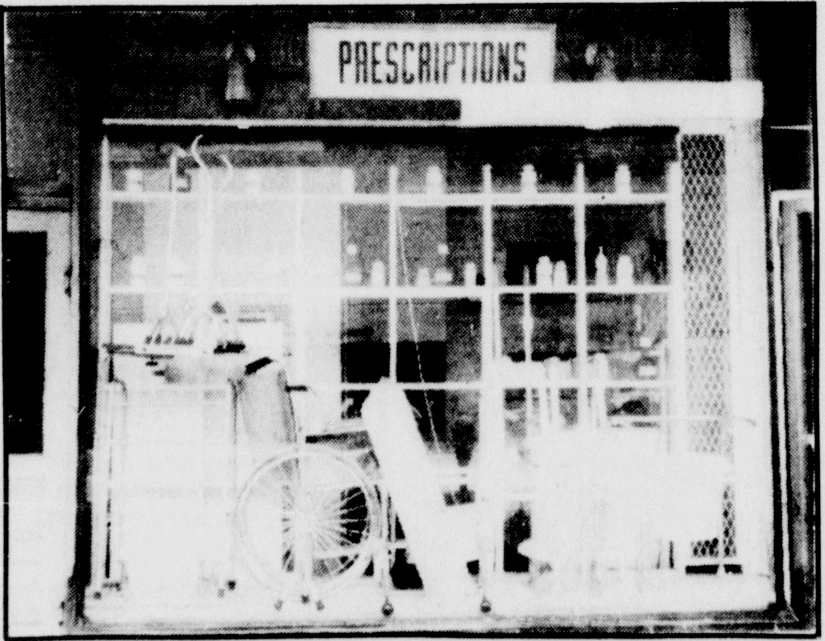

The nation's Fourth of July weekend traffic death toll reached 136 today as many persons interrupted holiday outings to return to work.

Showers and thunderstorms dampened activities in parts of the South and ranged northeastward into interior New England. Most other sections of the country were dry.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 450 and 550 persons would die on the nation's highways during the holiday period.

The count of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday in each time zone.

Ohio colleges seek students

By The Associated Press
Ohio colleges and universities, stung by falling enrollments, are mounting new efforts to find students.
At least one has advertised in the Wall Street Journal; several advertise in high school weekly newspapers. Others have taken to radio and television.

Most are intensifying their visits to high school "college fairs" and seminars, and some are giving their pitch in the prospective students' living rooms.
"The competition is getting tougher," one admissions officer said. "The prospective students are being bombarded."

Rio Grande College admission officials say they have one of the most complete recruiting programs in the state.

Don Reynolds of the admissions department said techniques include advertising in high school newspapers, visiting guidance counselors and paying house calls to parents.

"Once we get into the house, we feel we can talk to mom and dad a little seriously about the dollars and cents involved in a college education," Reynolds said. "We are a small school, and try to keep the personal touch in recruitment."

Most admissions directors say the personal touch is important, particularly in a prospect's visit to the campus.

"About 70 per cent of those interested persons that visit campus actually matriculate," said Walter Eccard, admissions director of Capital University. "We feel that if we can get them to the campus, we have a very good chance."

But the problem often is bringing the school to the attention of the high school graduates.

Ohio University now sponsors a television quiz show for high school students. This spring, it distributed a tabloid newspaper on higher education which appeared as an insert in many state newspapers.

"Next year, we plan to expand our present program, especially our receptions," said Jerry Reese, OU director of admissions.

"We go to different areas throughout the state and rent hotel ballrooms, where we invite prospective students, their parents and high school faculty to talk with representatives from our school," he said.

Eccard said his program also depends on receptions, and less now on the high school fairs.

"We've found high school visits to be less effective," he said. "We want to get out, and taking the campus on the road has a better impact on the students."

Bill Thompson of Marietta College said his school also is spending less time visiting high schools.

"We're finding that high school visits are not the way to go, so we have been experimenting with different programs," he said.

One experiment for Marietta was an advertisement in the Wall Street Journal. Thompson said the ad drew about 30 responses, but no applications.

Moncton, N.B., was known as the Bend of the Petitcodias until 1885.

NEW NUCLEAR PLANT — Work is progressing on the $335 million Zimmer nuclear plant on the Ohio River, near Moscow. It is being constructed by the Dayton Power and Light Co., the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co., and the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. The first 840,000 kilowatt generating unit is expected to be put in operation in 1978. A second one million kilowatt unit is planned to go into operation in the early 1980s. This unit will cost an additional $500 million. This view shows the reactor building in left foreground and the beginning of cooling tower in right background.

No King slaying conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department investigation has found no conspiracy involved in the slaying of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. at her husband's Atlanta church last Sunday.

Deputy Asst. Atty. Gen. K. William O'Connor said in a telephone interview Thursday that Marcus Wayne Chenault, a graduate student from Dayton, Ohio, charged in the killing, evidently acted alone.

"On the basis of the analysis done by the FBI at my request, on yesterday (Wednesday) a determination was made by me that the evidence did not support any concept of conspiracy and that subject Chenault was acting alone and not in concert with others," O'Connor said.

He said the preliminary FBI investigation of the case has been halted. "We naturally took a look at this," he said in explaining the federal involvement. "Mrs. King was a very important person and it seemed very peculiar."

Chenault, 23, is accused of shooting Mrs. King, the 70-year-old mother of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., as she played the organ at a service in Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta. A church deacon also was killed and a woman parishioner wounded.

O'Connor said the FBI probe determined that "there isn't any group of any consequence with which Mr. Chenault is associated other than a very small religious organization in Winchester, Ky. It's a group of four or five people which has no bearing on this case."

Last Tuesday, the Dayton Journal Herald quoted a friend of Chenault as saying the man belonged to an Ohio organization known as "The Troop" that believed black ministers should be punished because they allegedly have misled their people.

Atlanta police said Chenault allegedly had compiled two "death lists" of black leaders, including the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Atlanta SCLC President Hosea Williams and Chicago civil rights leader Jesse Jackson.

All three men had said they believed a conspiracy might be involved, and Williams reiterated Thursday, "I certainly don't think this gentleman acted alone. I think there is an effort to stop the movement, to wipe it out and bring an end to those who openly oppose our present system."

Abernathy and Williams have said they were at the jail when Chenault told them, "You all just keep those reverends in front of your names; the boys will get all of you."

Meanwhile, the grieving King family spent much of Thursday receiving friends and opening hundreds of sympathy telegrams, including one sent by President Nixon while he was in Moscow. Mrs. King's funeral was held Wednesday.

Inflation meat price problem

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Consumers plotting their shopping strategy will find lower meat prices for the next few weeks, but the bargains aren't likely to last unless the government can find a way of stopping inflation.

Anyone tempted to stock up now should remember that hoarding will eventually cut supply and simply drive the price right back up again.

Cattlemen recently withheld their beef from market because they weren't getting high enough prices for their livestock. They convinced the federal government to help with a $100-million purchase of beef and pork designed to give livestock producers a short-term shot in the arm and to convince consumers that meat was a good buy right now.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz keeps saying that meat is a good buy. He says Americans can't expect 55-cent-a-pound hamburger any more.

With a prod from the government, the National Association of Food Chains recently urged its members — retail stores — to feature beef and other meats. Advertisements indicate the price is coming down.

Administration officials hope that lower prices will encourage consumers to buy. That would bring to market the oversupply of meat that is on ranches and feedlots.

Once that meat has been sold, however, prices probably will rise again. The solution is to make it cheaper to produce the cow. That would mean the farmer could charge the packer less; the packer could charge the supermarket less; and the supermarket could charge you less — providing that inflation doesn't boost the cost of things like labor, rent and electricity.

In May, inflation was proceeding at an annual rate of 13.2 per cent. At the same time, the government market-basket — the amount it costs a hypothetical family of 3.2 persons for farm-produced food — was 19 per cent higher than a year-ago. Food prices were up 1.1 per cent in May, although there was a slight decline for meat.

Even the government doesn't know for sure what will happen next. Administration experts and private economists agree, however, that it's going to take some time before the up and down pattern of meat prices evens out.

The Agriculture Department purchase of meat for school lunches won't have much real effect on the market. Officials say it represents the amount of meat produced in only two or three days. But they hope it will have a psychological effect on the consumer.

What does all this mean? Should you go out and fill the freezer full of beef? The best advice seems to be: Buy what you need. But don't stock up with the idea of hoarding a year's supply.

That's what happened last year during the freeze on beef prices. Americans, hearing warnings of withholding by cattlemen, bought heavily and the buying created a shortage.

The same thing could happen again. Lower meat prices over the long run — and that means up to two years — depend on lower feed prices. And lower feed prices depend on more grain.

The Agriculture Department said last Monday that there will be record corn and wheat harvests this year, but they said the crops won't be as big as had been predicted.

There were record corn and grain harvests last year, too. Why, then, is the price of feed grains soaring?

Exports are one reason.

In the wake of the Russian wheat deal in the summer of 1972, the price of grain doubled in a year. Farmers who had sold their wheat for about $1.50 a bushel before the Russian deal was announced were angry. They felt they had been cheated.

Last year and this year, they are holding on to the grain until they are sure they can get the highest possible price. Grain dealers in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas say that farmers have sold only 10 to 20 per cent of the harvest so far this year, compared to 50 or 60 per cent in a normal year.

On June 18, the wheat was selling for $3.99 a bushel and it has been going up fairly steadily since then.

American cattlemen aren't the only ones competing for the wheat and corn. Steadily rising demand around the world has meant a better market for U.S. farm exports and higher prices at home.

The Nixon administration wants to continue exporting farm products. The government sees exports as a way to freer world trade and reduced tariffs. It also sees the exports as a way to create a favorable balance of trade — getting more money for U.S. products than Americans spend for foreign goods.

North American eating habits account for the consumption of about a ton of grain a year per capita. One hundred fifty pounds of that is eaten as grain products; the rest is fed to cattle and indirectly consumed in meat. In the poorer countries, each person consumes about 400 pounds of grain a year — most of it directly.

As the poorer countries get richer, however, their people want better food — more meat, less rice. The demand increases again.

Experts who study worldwide trends in food and population say Americans are simply going to have to change their way of living and get used to eating less beef if the world is to have enough food. They noted that Americans have doubled their beef consumption in 20 years.

What's ahead? A lot of "ifs."

If the record U.S. grain harvests materialize, and if crops in the rest of the world are good, cutting the demand for U.S. foodstuffs, and if we don't have another fuel crisis and if inflation slows down, retail prices could come down again around the end of the year.

But it adds up to keeping a careful eye on the budget, looking for specials and developing a taste for casseroles.

Auto insurance hikes seen likely

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Automobile insurance rates, headed downward the past four years, will begin to rise soon because of inflation and a new upswing in accident rates, according to industry spokesmen.

"The trend at this point is that rates will go up because of inflation. There is no way to circumvent this," said a spokesman for the Insurance Services Office in New York, which provides 1,300 companies with statistics on rates and claims.

Spokesman for five of the nation's largest insurers said rising medical bills and auto repair costs are forcing companies to pay more for each accident claim. And they said motorists now are having more accidents since the gasoline shortage of last winter eased.

"During the early months of 1974, the frequency of accidents dropped substantially," a spokesman for the Travelers Insurance Cos. said. "But other costs, hospital and repair work were going up. It was a standoff."

"Now the gasoline is more available and the accident frequency is not so low, and the other costs are still rising."

"These facts show that we're virtually going to have to raise rates, but it's too early to tell how much."

None of the companies would estimate the amount of increase.

According to the federal Consumer Price Index (CPI), since 1971 hospital rates have risen 15 per cent, medical costs 10 per cent, doctors' fees 9 per cent and auto repair and maintenance 14 per cent. During the same period, the CPI recorded a 3.4 per cent drop in auto insurance rates.

Spokesman for the Hartford

Insurance Group and Aetna Life and Casualty said the lower premiums were the result of competition between companies, federal controls, rate cuts ordered by some state insurance commissioners and "no-fault" laws more than 20 states have enacted to take auto-accident cases out of the courts.

No-fault systems vary among states, but generally enable an accident victim to be compensated by his own insurance company rather than have to prove in court that someone else caused the accident. Many states mandated rate reductions to reflect administrative savings under no-fault.

A spokesman for State Farm Insurance Cos. in Bloomington, Ill., said no rate increases were being sought now but in the long run State Farm expects "tough times" if accident frequencies rise and inflation continues. He said the company has indications that summer travel may be causing an upswing in the accident rate.

Allstate, the largest auto insurer, said it is waiting for a study by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners on the energy crisis and rates before deciding on an increase.

Dodgers' rally nips Reds

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers are out to prove they're not riding a bicycle built for two collapses in a row. "Down with the Big Red Machine," said second baseman Dave Lopes after a two-run ninth-inning rally Thursday that produced a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati and dropped the defending National League West Division champion Reds a whopping 9½ games behind the runaway Dodgers.

"This is the year of the Little Blue Bicycle," Lopes added, referring to the Dodgers' color. "We blew it last year and we haven't forgotten. It won't happen again."

Los Angeles' biggest lead over the second-place Reds a year ago was 8½ games on July 17.

In other National League action Thursday, the Chicago Cubs edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, the Montreal Expos nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 in the opener of a doubleheader but dropped the nightcap 3-2, the Philadelphia Phillies lost their opener to the New York Mets 5-3 and then ended an eight-game losing skid by taking the nightcap 6-2, the Houston Astros shaded the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 10 innings and the San Francisco Giants trounced the San Diego Padres 9-2.

Cubs 3, Cardinals 2
Rookie Andre Thornton's double keyed a three-run fourth inning and Chicago held on to beat St. Louis.

Expos 2-2, Pirates 1-3

Richie Zisk doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning of the nightcap against rookie Dennis Blair after an intentional walk to Willie Stargell, and

Mets 5-2, Phillies 3-6

Wayne Twitchell, making only his second start of the season since knee surgery, pitched a five-hitter to help the Phillies end an eight-game losing streak in the nightcap. New York's Cleon Jones drove in four runs and John Milner homered in support of Jon Matlack's 10-strikeout pitching in the opener.

Milwaukee routs Cleveland, 15-3

By The Associated Press

There's no place like home plate for Mike Hegan.

"Everybody wants to play," Hegan says. "I think a guy who's satisfied sitting on the bench is not worth anything."

An uneasy bench rider most of his major league baseball life, Hegan played an entire game for a change Thursday and contributed a productive bat to Milwaukee's 15-3 rout of the Cleveland Indians.

"It was like getting a birdie on the 18th hole," said a happy Hegan after driving in five runs with two homers. "You want to go out and do it every day. You look forward more to coming to the ballpark the next day when you do something like this, and that feeling usually carries over for the next couple of weeks."

Hegan, a baseball vagabond, is making his second appearance with Milwaukee. Along with the Brewers, the first baseman has played with the old Seattle Pilots, the Oakland A's and New York Yankees.

He got into the game against Cleveland only because regular George Scott was injured.

In the other American League games, the New York Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 6-4; the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Boston Red Sox 10-6; the Chicago White Sox bombed the Kansas City Royals 11-3; the Minnesota Twins defeated the Texas Rangers 3-1 and the Oakland A's turned back the California Angels 9-4.

Yanks 6, Tigers 4

Walt Williams' sacrifice fly, his first run batted in of the season, drove in the go-ahead tally in a three-run ninth inning that lifted New York over Detroit.

Orioles 10, Red Sox 6

Bobby Grich drove in three runs, one with his 13th homer, as Baltimore rolled past Boston to sweep their three-game series.

White Sox 11, Royals 3

Bill Melton drove in four runs on a solo homer and two singles as Chicago whipped Kansas City.

Twins 3, Rangers 1
Larry Hise's two-run homer capped a three-run rally in the ninth inning, carrying Minnesota over Texas.

A's 9, Angels 4

Vida Blue fired a five-hitter and Joe Rudi laced four hits, including a two-run homer, as Oakland completed a four-game sweep of California.

Court House drops Bentley game, 12-2

Post 25 to host SCOL leaders

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

When Washington Court House Post 25 takes the field for a 2 p.m. Sunday doubleheader with Chillicothe Post 757, the hopes of the remaining South Central Ohio League teams will be riding with Post 25 on the Washington Senior High diamond.

While Post 757 has been cruising along at the top of the SCOL with a 10-3 league record, the next four teams have been knocking each other off in the equally-balanced league. Chillicothe Post 62 rests in second with a 7-4 mark, Hillsboro is 7-6, while Portsmouth is 8-7 and Court House carries a 6-7 SCOL mark. Only Greenfield, which is 0-11, seems to be out of the title chase on the 25-game league slate.

If Washington expects a doubleheader sweep, Post 25's pitching staff will have to silence second baseman John Shoemaker and catcher-first baseman Steve Chester. Shoemaker is recognized as the clutch player in Post 757's line-up, while Chester is regarded as one of the top power hitters in the league. Chester stroked three homeruns in four games last weekend.

Both teams have met once this season, as Post 757 erupted for three runs in the fourth inning to down Court House 3-1. Both Shoemaker and Chester were practicing for the East-West Ohio High School All-Star contest and missed the game.

Having already played 14 games, Court House carries a very respectable team batting average of .289 into the contest. Five of the Post 25 regulars are batting .300 or better.

Leading the team in seven individual categories is 16 year-old shortstop Steve Haines. Haines is batting .442 with 19 hits and 20 runs scored. The Jamestown Greenview flash has yet to be caught stealing in 24 attempts and he has received 14 walks. He shares the lead with four other players in 14 games played and being hit by a pitch once.

Rightfielder Pat McNaughton has been stroking the ball at a .368 pace. McNaughton leads the squad with a total of six extra base hits, four doubles and two triples, and 11 runs batted-in.

Allan Coppock, who has been playing errorless ball at first base, follows with a .347 batting average. Coppock has been the hardest member of the Post 25 line-up for opposing pitchers to strike out, as he has struck out three times this season.

Centerfielder-pitcher Mark Johnson is batting .325 and second baseman Mark Scherer has been swatting the ball at a .310 clip. Johnson is a questionable starter for Sunday's games, as he has missed the last two games because of an injury to both of his hands.

Catcher Paul England, who recently saw his eight-game hitting string come to an end, is batting .294. England leads the team with 51 plate appearances and two home runs. While catching, England has held the opposition to just two stolen bases, as Post 25 has compiled 47.

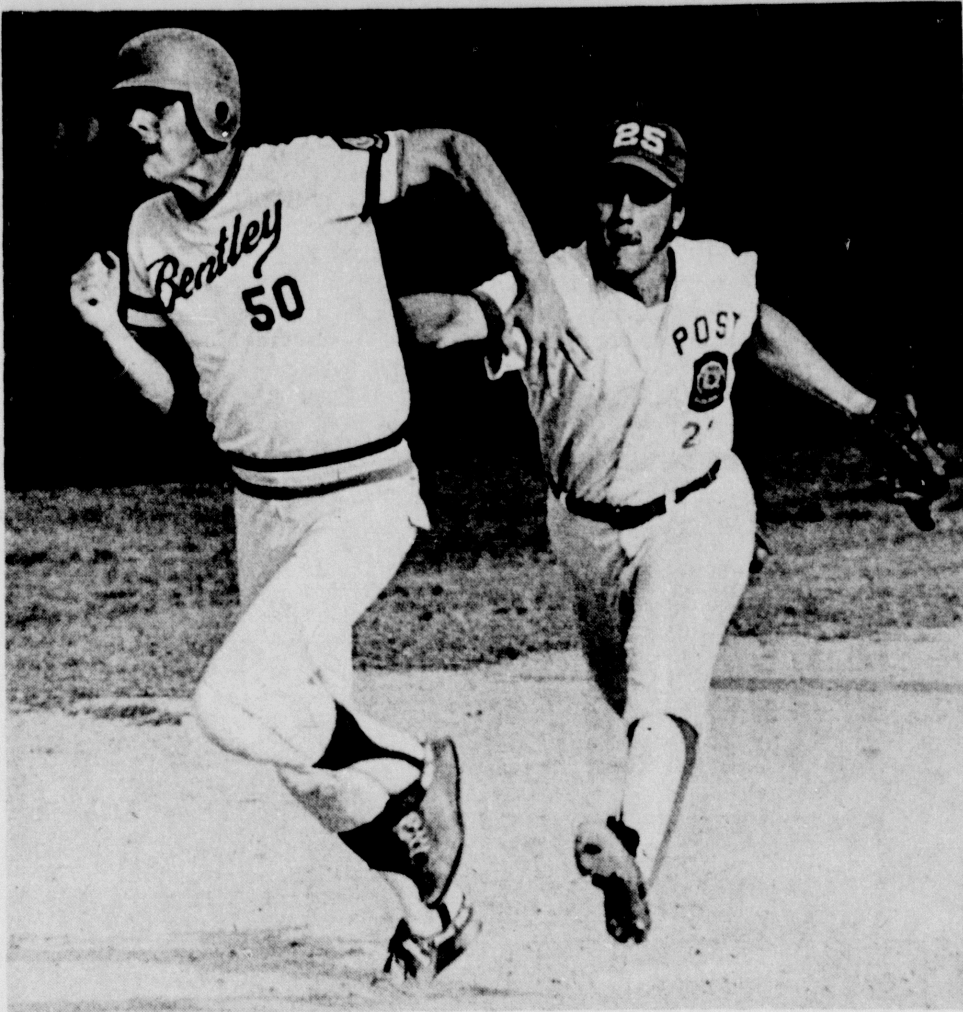

Randy Reiber and Chris Shaper will probably see action in the outfield Sunday. Reiber, who has been battling out of a early season 0 for 20 batting slump, has raised his average to .156. Shaper, who has an excellent throwing arm, is batting .133.

Third base has been a problem for Manager Gary Dunn. Tom Riley, who is now batting .231, had been receiving the starting nod until Geoff Smith returned to the team. Smith missed the first eight games because of an injury. Since his return, Smith has been batting .333 and Dunn has been trying to reshuffle his line-up to fit him in.

One of Sunday's probable starting pitchers will be Jeff Green. Green, who has a 1-4 record, leads the mound staff in five areas. He has pitched in five games, four of which were starts, and totaled 27 and two-thirds innings pitched. He has struck out 22 batters and owns a 2.31 earned run average, the lowest on the staff.

Should he be ready for Sunday's games, Johnson will probably get the

APPARENTLY OUT—Caught in a rundown, Post 50's Terry McCarthy is tagged by Court House's Paul England. However, England lost his grip on the ball and McCarthy went in to score. (Larry Watts Photos)

CONTESTANT JUDGING — Maria Frogale, the first runnerup in the Little Miss Firecracker contest this year, answers a question during the judging Thursday afternoon in the Mahan Building on the Fairground. The nine other finalists in this year's Fourth of July competition patiently await their turn at answering the questions. Mike Bailo, the Jaycee who served as chairman of the Little Miss Firecracker judging contest this year, is handling the questions on the stage. A record number of 83 girls entered the Little Miss Firecracker contest this year.

WISHING I WAS SIX — This little girl, caught unaware by the camera, was part of the audience during the "Little Miss Firecracker" competition Thursday at the Fayette County Fairground. Entrants had to be at least six years of age. Maybe she'll be a future "Little Miss Firecracker."

HERE COMES THE PARADE — Members of the Washington Senior High School marching band led the annual Fourth of July parade through Washington C. H. to the Fayette County Fairground to open the holiday festivities here Thursday. The parade launched a full day of games, contests and other activities for all ages in the annual Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Washington C. H. Jaycees.

Four persons cited in holiday mishaps

Three accidents in which three people were charged with traffic violations were investigated by Washington C. H. police officers and two other accidents, involving hit-skip drivers are presently under police investigation. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department charged a Worthington man with a traffic offense and investigated another rural accident Thursday.

A private warrant for leaving the scene of an accident was issued against a Columbus man at 11:45 p.m. Thursday, city police reported.

Gene Larry Belding, 45, was charged after he was involved in an accident at the intersection of Fayette and Court streets with a truck driven by David D. Weaver, 21, Bloomingburg. Police estimated moderate damage to Belding's car from the mishap.

A car driven by Robert Elias Delweese, 23, of 529 Third St., hit a wet spot on Gibbs Avenue, near the Forest Street intersection and slid into a car owned by Larry Joe Kelley, 19, of 419 W. Elm St., at 7:54 p.m. Thursday.

Burglars hit safe at Wilson Lumber

A safe-cracking incident is being investigated by Washington C. H. police officers at Wilson Lumber Co., 210 W. Oak St.

Police Chief Rodman Scott stated that sometime between midnight Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday someone had entered the building through the overhead rear door. Scott said the burglars stole over $100 from one safe and attempted to break into another.

Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation in London have been called to assist in the case.

An incident of malicious vandalism occurred sometime Thursday night at the Sports Center, CCC-Highway-W, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported.

An unlocked building behind the business, containing the competition motorcycles used by the Sports Center's racing team, was entered and two of the competition bikes vandalized. Gas caps were removed, fenders dented and the engine wiring ripped out. Damage was estimated at $250 and investigation is continuing.

Weapons, ammo stolen at armory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Enough weapons and ammunition to outfit a full Army company have been stolen from a National Guard armory in suburban Compton, authorities reported today.

"It is frightening to think that this (arsenal) would fall into the wrong hands," said Compton Police Sgt. W.H. Williams. "It appears that the theft was a highly organized thing."

Police and FBI agents refused to speculate on who may have been responsible for the theft. But authorities said they were investigating routinely the possibility that a terrorist or radical group may have been involved.

The firing pins were missing from the stolen weapons, the Army said, but police officials added that replacements could be obtained easily.

A list of missing items issued by military authorities included thousands of rounds of ammunition, eighty M16 rifles, seventy M60 machine guns, eight M79 grenade launchers, one .45-caliber automatic and 15 bayonets.

Ammunition taken from the armory Wednesday was listed as 3,360 rounds of 5.50-caliber bullets, 1,000 rounds of 7.58-caliber bullets, 45 rounds of .45-caliber shells, 40 grenades, 16 smoke grenades and 100 riot grenades. They said 75 gas masks also were missing.

An FBI agent said the quantity of weapons and ammunition could fully equip an Army combat company.

Investigators said entry to the armory was through a side door and a vacuum drill was used to pierce the

A motorcycle owned by Juan Stewart, 538 Harrison St., was stopped while it was in storage at 548 Harrison St., city police reported.

Thieves removed the motor and other various parts valued at $150 from the 1955 Cushman motorbike.

The office door of Marting Manufacturing, 809 Delaware St., was discovered part way open and a window broken around midnight Thursday.

Police suspect the incident occurred sometime between 5 p.m. Thursday and the time of discovery. Apparently nothing was missing, but an investigation is continuing.

A bicycle was stolen from the Eldon Justice residence, 524 E. Elm St., sometime between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. Wednesday, police reported. The bike, valued at $60, was removed from the front yard.

A bad check for $67 was passed at Stop-N-Go, 19 Fayette Center, on June 26. Police are searching for the person guilty of check fraud.

weapons vault, which an armory sergeant recalled locking at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

An Army official said that the firing pins had been removed before the weapons were placed in storage in a vault. The pins were kept in another vault, which apparently was not entered.

Lt. Col. Andrew Wolf, public relations officer for the Military Department in Sacramento, said in a telephone interview that this is standard practice when armories are left unattended.

Wolf said the Army could not afford to post round-the-clock security guards at state armories and they are usually left unattended after normal business hours.

There were no Army personnel at the Compton armory — where, ironically, a silent alarm system is currently being installed — from Wednesday morning until Thursday night, when the theft was discovered, officials said.

B'burg boy hurt

Sheriff issues warning to mini-bike operators

A nine-year-old Bloomingburg boy sustained foot injuries following a mini-bike accident at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. James Hamby struck a cement block at his residence, which caused the injury, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported. It is not known whether or not the youth was treated.

Sheriff Don Thompson warns owners and operators, especially children, using mini-bikes and small type motorcycles that records at the sheriff's office show a 500 per cent increase in the number of injuries received from falls and collisions in accidents involving these types of vehicles. This figure is based on the first six months of this year as compared with the entire past year.

Operators of motorcycles and mini-bikes should wear all of the protective head gear and eye protection as well as long sleeved shirts and long pants which gives some protection in event of accident.

Parents should also acquaint themselves with proper operating procedure and the laws related to two-wheel vehicle operation. Ohio law prohibits the operation upon any public highway or road of such vehicles unless they are properly licensed and the operator wears the required protective devices.

The operator is required to have a valid drivers license with a motorcycle endorsement and persons riding on private property must first obtain the permission of the property owner, who assumes responsibility.

The sheriff stated the same laws apply to villages and non-incorporated areas and deputies have been instructed to pay particular attention to these vicinities.

Three holiday blazes doused

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was busy fighting three fires during Thursday.

At 10:08 a.m. firemen were summoned to a grass fire in the vicinity of U.S. 62-S and U.S. 35 intersection. They subdued the flames with water and reported no loss. The owner of the land is not known.

Another grass fire broke out at 4:26 p.m. at the Landmark fertilizer plant, food division, 1201 S. Elm St. Grass under a fuel oil tank had ignited, but there was not damaged.

Firemen were summoned again at 5:13 p.m. to the Washington Aluminum Casting Co., in the Industrial Park, where oil had caught fire in an exhaust duct. Workmen from the plant were able to put out the fire with fire extinguishers, before firemen arrived.
